Difference Between Law and Justice. The concepts of law and justice are often confused and misinterpreted by many. While the two are strictly connected, they are not the same thing. Justice is a broad concept that is based on equality of rights, fairness and morality. Conversely, law is a body of regulations and standards set up by governments and international bodies and is (or should be) based on the idea of justice.

Legal and political theorists since the time of Plato have wrestled with the problem of whether justice is part of law or is simply a moral judgment about law. Nearly every writer on the subject has either concluded that justice is only a judgment about law or has offered no reason to support a conclusion that justice is somehow part

On the Connection Between Law and Justice

Law refers to a system of rules that society or government develops in order to govern the behavior whereas justice refers to a concept based on equality, fairness and morality. This is the key difference between law and justice. The concepts of law and justice are so intertwined that it is hard to imagine one without the other.
