Why Manual Is Better. Most manual transmission drivers will tell you that the reason that they like driving manual is because it feels like real driving. With a manual car (or stick shift in the US) you have total control of the vehicle, you're more involved with the mechanics of the car and will find that it's an entirely different type of drive to that of an automatic.

On the manual, there's no "dead pedal" to the left of the clutch, in fact, the footwell tightens as you go deeper, forcing you to either have your foot on the clutch, or under it. It's a little strange. Not a big deal, with the generally upright driving position, but again- drive a JL manual vs. auto back to back, and you'll see what I mean.

Hi all, We're thinking about the Forte 5 EX. Would prefer a manual transmission, but have called 4 local dealerships and can only find the AT. One dealer suggested that the experience w/ a sportmatic is essentially the same as a manual minus a clutch. Haven't had a chance to test drive it yet...

I am experienced driving manual transmissions with approximately 1 million miles on the 2 vehicles listed above plus a Peterbilt farm truck (13 sp) that needs double clutching. Off-road my feelings are mixed. If you use the Jeep for working - pulling stumps, dragging stuff, etc. a manual is preferred, highway travel I prefer the manual, but the auto would be fine too.
