A sensory system undernourished by nature, will find other input, but that input will likely lack a connective quality. This input, random car sounds, TV shows, white noise, etc, doesn't build true balance; rather, it fights for attention. I t doesn't provide the neurological nourishment that supports fluid, brain-building experiences.

In the book Nature's Operating Instructions: The True Biotechnologies (coedited with J. P. Harpignies), Ausubel has made a clear distinction between corporate biotech, including genetic engineering, which he decries, and what he has termed "true biotechnologies" based on biomimicry, natural design, and the restoration of natural capital.

The Nature of Edge Loops - Edge Loop is a term you will see used often in polygon modeling circles. It is often confusing to new users just what edge loops are and what their significance to modeling is. Edge loops can be thought of in two senses: A series of edges connecting vertices that are shared by four faces.
