Young Adult literature is usually used to refer to fiction aimed at teenagers, that is, people from 12 to 18. However, the label has grown to include what is called " Middle Grade Literature ", aimed at older children from 9 to 12, and " New Adult Literature ", aimed at young adults from 18 to 30. These labels, though, are not stable boundaries.

What are the Characteristics of Young Adult Literature?

In the 1980s, young adult literature began pushing the envelope in terms of the subject matter that was considered appropriate for their audience: Books dealing with topics such as rape, suicide, parental death, and murder which had previously been deemed taboo, saw significant critical and commercial success.
